

Puritans decided to emigrate to the New World to be free. They left on board the "Mayflower".

During the voyage, life was difficult. They couldn't wash and they couldn't eat good food.

The sea was sometimes very rough, so the passengers often were sick and staying on the deck was very dangerous.

One baby was born but there was also a death.

Puritans arrived in Cape Cod after two months of trip.